Comments on the course evaluations

The number of respondents accounts for approximately 11% of the total, which remains significant when considering the active participants. The evaluation reveals a remarkable level of satisfaction among the respondents, especially considering the course's distance format and the large number of students with different educational background and varying age. The verbal feedback provided by the respondents further confirms that the course is on the right track. However, the feedback also includes constructive criticism that highlights areas for improvement.

Examination results

x	Examination results are as expected Examination results are not as expected Currently, around 30% of the students have successfully completed the course with a passing grade. This percentage is expected to increase as more students complete the mandatory components in the upcoming semesters. However, it's worth noting that the throughput for distance courses typically remains below 50%.

Recommendations and priorities for the course development

Although no immediate action is required based on the students' feedback, it will be taken into consideration during the routine course upgrades and revisions.
