Comments on the course evaluations

The course was conducted under the very special situation of COVID-19. It was initially planned for the labs to be exceptionally done in class (since they involve working with hardware equipment we provide). Then, due to circumstances, we needed to adapt and put into place new options and solutions several times while running the course. Even though we faced a number of challenges, I believe that in the end it worked out very well. To improve, we will try to make the lectures more compelling to listen to.
