

The work with course evaluations and course reports constitutes a part of the faculty's quality assurance work in education at first-cycle and second-cycle education. The course report is a comprehensive documentation of the course evaluation and is an important instrument for the development of courses and programmes as well as for guaranteeing the students' influence on these. The course report takes into account the students' course evaluations, the teachers' views on the course's implementation and the results based on an assessment of the students' achieved learning outcomes in relation to the intended learning outcomes of the course. Key figures, an analysis and a development plan for the course are also included in the course report.

It is of the utmost importance that students are given the opportunity to participate throughout the course evaluation process and that they make use of the opportunity to give constructive criticism. In this way, the results can serve as a relevant and specific foundation for improvement.

The structure for course evaluation is described in the "Course evaluation process for first- cycle and second-cycle education at Malmö University" (in Swedish Kursvärderingsprocessen för utbildning på grundnivå och avancerad nivå vid Malmö universitet, dnr. LED 1.3-2018/123) and in the "Routines for course evaluations and course reports at the Faculty of Health and Society", Ref. no. LED 1.3-2016/187.

The course report compiled after each completed (full) course forms the basis for feedback to students and is followed up at quality dialogues at faculty- and university-wide level.

Results: Comments on the course implementation and the results based on an assessment of the students' achieved learning outcomes in relation to the course intended learning outcomes are summarised here (incl. information regarding the result of the examination). Both success factors and problems are identified
The combination of multi-cultural student groups (Germany, Switzerland, Finland, Austria, Sweden) offered lectures, group discussions and workshops gives the course a substantial support to the reflective understanding of the Soc Work and Welfare as a subject area, where the local and the global knowledge meet. The course has welcomed to Malmö approx. 870 students since 2010 and established a Community of practice and learning among teachers from partner universities as well as from the Faculty of Health and Society/Dept of Soc Work and students, therefore it contributed to sustainability in Social Education. The course also make a substantial contribution to strengthening internationalization at Home t the MAU. Due to the Pandemi and restrictions in 2021, the course was further developed and in 2022 it was implemented as a Hybrid, however 90% of the students did participate on campus in this year. Since 2023 it went back to become 8-days of Campus based course having online sessions before and after. The course is a contextual meeting place for researchers/teachers/PhD students who meet both from the MAU and abroad which has given the course a content of a unique contribution to knowledge acquisition in Soc Work and Social Welfare issues. Also strengthened the understanding in professional capacity and personal development. The structure of the 8 intense days is demanding, however the organization and structure is overall highly appreciated, in 2026 the scheduled days est 9-16 on diversified thematic topics. The scheduled hours will include a time slot for pre-planning of the final oral assessment. Two weeks before the campus part, there is a online preparatory session. 2 months before the Course Intro, there are online Staff meetings arranged together with partner Universities. The combination of an oral and a written assignment gives the course a clear structure, also having a preparatory part (where all scientific articles are presented). The course has been implemented as partly (dependant on the partnership) implemented as a BIP together with three partner Universities (where some student groups received funding to cover their stay in Malmö) which has continuously developed the blended learning even more in the upcoming years. In 2026 a full thematic day was included and implemented by incoming facilitators from the UK. PhD students from the Dept of soc work, MaU are invited making it possible to raise their RQ:s in the classroom. All supervision goes online, in particular after the Campus-part take place (written assignment). In addition, invited PhD students gives them an opportunity to raise and problematize their RQ:s and meet international diversified group of students. Around 10% of the students represent other disciplines than social work; psychology and international relations.

Analysis: Analysis based on a summary of the students' individual course evaluations – both formative as summative. Produced in collaboration with the teachers involved in the course, alternatively by taking their views into account.

Overall there is a high commitment among the students and active engagement. In addition, there are international students from several countries together with Program students from the Dept of Social Work. Selected thematic topics (in 2026, 2 were offered) are defined as CIM-Activities where diversified student groups are incoming (psychology, criminology, care science, cultural studies). A number of integrated Workshops/webinars are therefore offered where fellow students from did participate on campus which gives an added value when focusing on specific topics of relevance, in this case Human rights vs profession. Ending up the campus part with an oral presentation incl feed back strengthen the capacity among the participants for the online part where a written assignment is submitted. A possibility to make a second oral presentation will be considered. The combination of scientific articles offered in advance (preparatory online part), a mixture of interdisciplinary teacher/researchers-staff including PhD students makes a contribution to the research field of Social Work and welfare studies as well. Further, it strenghten and develop international and instituional partnership as well as the Community of Practice established through the Course and students understanding of the local and global awareness in Social Profession International Social Work

Course development and action plan: Course coordinator's suggestions for changes, comments and actions. Describe the relevant and possible changes to be implemented in the short and long term and when they are planned to be put into action. Specify who is responsible for the implementation: the course coordinator or another teacher. If a problem was identified, explain why nonetheless no consequent changes are warranted. Follow-up of measures proposed based on previous course report(s) should also be presented here.

Basically no changes as the course has continuously been developed throughout the years having the same overall pedgogicl structure and themtic content. When it comes to the scheduled Campus-based part the hours in each day will for the 2027 included half day scheduled preparation for the oral assessment. The Blended learning part in combination with campus based sessions will be further developed in close strategic collaboration with partner universities also beyond the partnership (which may vary), e.g in 2026 two UK Universities was represented. Even though the course is given as an independent course at MAU, its fully integrated as a part of the Dept of Social Work strategic long-term Partnership and contribution to sustainability in social education.
