

The work with course evaluations and course reports constitutes a part of the faculty's quality assurance work in education at first-cycle and second-cycle education. The course report is a comprehensive documentation of the course evaluation and is an important instrument for the development of courses and programmes as well as for guaranteeing the students' influence on these. The course report takes into account the students' course evaluations, the teachers' views on the course's implementation and the results based on an assessment of the students' achieved learning outcomes in relation to the intended learning outcomes of the course. Key figures, an analysis and a development plan for the course are also included in the course report.

It is of the utmost importance that students are given the opportunity to participate throughout the course evaluation process and that they make use of the opportunity to give constructive criticism. In this way, the results can serve as a relevant and specific foundation for improvement.

The structure for course evaluation is described in the "Course evaluation process for first- cycle and second-cycle education at Malmö University" (in Swedish Kursvärderingsprocessen för utbildning på grundnivå och avancerad nivå vid Malmö universitet), Ref. no. LED 1.3-2018/123) and in the "Routines for course evaluations and course reports at the Faculty of Health and Society" (in Swedish Rutiner för kursvärderingar och kursrapporter vid Fakulteten för hälsa och samhälle), Ref. no. LED 1.3-2016/187.

The course report compiled after each completed (full) course forms the basis for feedback to students and is followed up at quality dialogues at faculty- and university-wide level.

Teacher's perspective (to be completed by the course coordinator)

Results: Comments on the course implementation and the results based on an assessment of the students' achieved learning outcomes in relation to the course intended learning outcomes are summarised here (incl. information regarding the result of the examination). Both success factors and problems are identified
Students reported that they had achieved the intended learning outcomes to a moderate extent (mean 4.2/6). The course was seen as strongly research-based (mean 5.1/6) and provided good opportunities for independent learning (mean 5.4/6). However, the forms of examination were rated lower (mean 3.0/6), as was the overall match with expectations (mean 2.6/6). Course materials (mean 3.5/6) and clarity of information (mean 3.5/6) were also assessed as only moderately supportive.
Analysis: Analysis based on a summary of the students' individual course evaluations – both formative (if any), and summative evaluations. Produced in collaboration with the teachers involved in the course, alternatively by taking their views into account.

The results suggest that the course's research focus and independence worked well, but organizational challenges reduced the learning experience. Large groups (6–7 students) made collaboration difficult, late publication of course information on Canvas limited preparation, and the examination did not allow students to fully demonstrate their learning. The library session was perceived as too basic for the master's level and poorly timed. Some students also expected more practical elements related to violence risk assessment.

Course development and action plan: Course coordinator's suggestions for changes, comments and actions. Describe the relevant and possible changes to be implemented in the short and long term and when they are planned to be put into action. Specify who is responsible for the implementation: the course coordinator or another teacher. If a problem was identified, explain why nonetheless no consequent changes are warranted. Follow-up of measures proposed based on previous course report(s) should also be presented here.

- Groups will be smaller.
- Canvas, literature, and group allocations will be published at least one week before the course starts.
- The library session will be adjusted to master's level and moved later in the course.
- We will look into adding more practical elements on violence risk assessment.
- Guidance on how to work effectively in groups will be provided.
